

Delving into the Hidden Paintings of Picasso

presented by Emeline Pouyet, Postdoctoral Fellow
Northwestern/Art Institute Center for Scientific Studies in the Arts

Photo Source: <https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2018/02/17/x-rays-reveal-secret-side-picassos-life-period-masterpiece/CRED:AFP>

Wednesday
May 23, 2018
6:30 - 8:00pm

The Firehouse Grill
750 Chicago Avenue
Evanston

In 1957, when Pablo Picasso was in his seventh decade, he mused that x-ray technology might one day reveal a lost work underneath one of his early paintings. Today, that prediction became reality—although the technology involved goes far beyond x-rays.

Come on out and hear more about how innovative technical studies are helping rediscover Picasso's decision making and creative processes at this early and seminal part of his career.

Science Cafe: Eat. Drink. Talk research in a relaxed atmosphere.

We are committed to promoting engagement with scientific topics and making it accessible to all.